City Grants Use of Land For Armory

Navy to Build on Ashland Road Property; Air Forces Get New Port for Training.

City council last night authorized negotiation of a lease with the navy for city land on which the navy will construct a $300,000 armory here.

The councilmen also granted the 11th Air Force landing and take-off rights at the municipal airport, thus paving the way for an army reserve officers' training program here.

The navy armory will be constructed on Ashland road, adjoining the state guard armory. The site consists of nearly five acres of land. A naval official said construction will begin next March and the building is expected to be completed in July.

A 20-man reserve division will be activated. Under the terms of the "offering for lease" approved last night by the council, it was stipulated that construction of the armory shall not conflict with state guard activities on the site.

Granting of permission to the 11th Air Force for landing rights at the airport followed the opening last Saturday of a program of flight training designed to keep the city's former army fliers in trim.

Fly Here Weekly.

Under the plan announced by the AAF, training planes based in Cleveland will fly here once a week to serve ex-military airmen who desire to retain their technical skill.

The council also agreed to prepare legislation authorizing the Yellow Stripe Cab company to use parking space on North Walnut street for airport bus service. The legislation will be put to a vote in November.

A cab official told the council that his company had ordered for delivery within two weeks a $12,000 Flxible company bus for airport transportation.

The official said the company has a Public Utilities Commission of Ohio permit to operate the route between the city and the airport at a fare of 25 cents.

New Residents Are Promised Trash Service

Agreement Near on Increase in Ash-Garbage Fees.

By agreement of council, new residents of Mansfield today were promised garbage and ash collection service if they paid the existing rate until Feb. 1.

The problem of new residents was called to council's attention last night by Service-Safety Director William W. Enlow as councilmen agreed to draw up for a vote in December a garbage-ash collection ordinance retaining the present $7.20-a-year garbage collection fee and setting up a $6-a-year ash collection fee.

Newcomers Turned Down.

Enlow informed councilmen that new residents wishing to subscribe to the garbage-ash service for the first time were being turned down by the garbage department. The refusal was based, he explained on the fact that trash service was provided only for those homeowners who had subscribed to the service for a year.

Councilmen agreed that persons should be permitted to subscribe to the garbage service through January and still be eligible for ash service.

F. E. Lingafelter, secretary of the Mansfield Waterworks and head of the garbage-trash collection service, explained that the ruling was directed primarily to aid new residents of the city.

Must Pay to February.

"If residents have just moved to Mansfield and have had no chance to take the service for a whole year, we will give them the service if they pay to February," he said.

The garbage-ash ordinance, as being prepared now by council, will actually mean a $6-a-year boost in the refuse collection fee. There is no charge now for ash collections.

The new ordinance is scheduled to require that persons desiring ash collection service first subscribe to the garbage service. Only a $3-a-year fee for trash service will be levied against persons having no ashes.

CITY'S BIGGER BY 25 FAMILIES

Mansfield was larger by approximately 25 families and about 100 persons today after county commissioners approved the annexation of 30 lots between Longview and Jefferson avenues at the north edge of the city.

Home owners in that area had petitioned city council to annex the territory after a number of them had been ordered by the county health department to cease dumping raw household wastes into an open ditch that runs along Jefferson avenue.

After receiving the home owners' request to be taken into the city, the city petitioned the county commissioners for permission to annex the area. The commissioners voted their approval of the annexation.

Ray Scott, county sanitarian, told the commissioners during this morning's hearing that several of the property owners along the south side of Jefferson avenue had been dumping sewage into the ditch.

"Some of the homes have septic tanks and some do not. The community is too small to incorporate and provide its own sewage system. The county health department recommends that the area be annexed to Mansfield so that modern sewage facilities can be provided," Scott said.

Mayor Roy W. Vaughn, Service-Safety Director William W. Enlow and City Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner attended the hearing. Mayor Vaughn said the next step in providing sewage lines for the community is the filing with city council of a petition from the home owners.

POLICE SEEK MISSING GIRL

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Cleveland detectives alerted law enforcement officers over Ohio today to post a lookout for Miss Joyce M. Garner, 18-year-old Cleveland City hospital student nurse.

Hospital Superintendent Charles T. Dolezal notified police that the attractive young Seville girl had not returned to her duties after a weekend in Athens where she went to see the Baldwin Wallace-Ohio university football game Saturday.

In Athens Miss Garner was the guest of Richard Gorham, an Ohio U. student and one of her neighbors in Seville. He put her on a 7:15 p. m. train Sunday, according to police, the last time her whereabouts was known. The train arrived in Cleveland at 1:30 a. m. Monday.

The girl was described as being five feet, four inches tall, and having red hair and blue eyes. Her parents in Seville could offer no help in locating Miss Garner.

BANKER DIES

WILMINGTON —(AP)—Alfred I. McVey, 82, retired presitent of the First National bank of Wilmington, died yesterday at his home here.

Tax Payments .33 Per Cent From Perfect

Collections of personal taxes for the last half of 1946 amounted to $243,390.44, or 99.77 per cent of the total charge, County Treasurer Charles C. Payne announced today.

The general fund totalled $207,441.41, or 99.63 per cent collected, and classified taxes amounted to $35,949.03, or 99.9 per cent paid, Payne said.

The deadline for payment was Nov. 5. Payments after that date are subject to a penalty of 10 per cent.

GOP, Truman at Odds Over Tax Slash Plans

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The first clash between President Truman and the Republican-controlled congress was shaping up today over the GOP proposal for a 20 per cent "across the board" cut in individual income taxes.

Rep. Martin (R., Mass.), who will be one of the Republican party's most powerful figures as speaker of the house next year, endorsed the widely-discussed program at a news conference.

The chief executive takes the view that present federal tax rates should not be reduced for two main reasons.

One is that the present high taxes will act as a bulwark against inflation, particularly in the light of his action last week-end in decontrolling virtually all prices and wages.

Opposes Future Debt.

The other is his belief that the present generation should pay for as large a part of the cost of the war as possible, and not leave a huge national debt for future generations.

The president feels that it is too early in the 1947 fiscal year to revise downward the government's income from taxation. Only four months of the fiscal year have passed, and the president feels that the serious economic effects of strikes and other production disturbances during that period warrants a re-survey of the government's fiscal position.

ELEVEN ABOARD PLANE MISSING IN MOUNTAINS

BURBANK, Calif. —(AP)— A Western Air Lines plane, with eight passengers and a crew of three aboard, was missing today —apparently in the snowswept mountains north of here.

The two-motored Douglas DC-3, inbound to the terminal here from Salt Lake City, was last reported at 3:24 a. m. (Pacific Standard time) when the pilot informed the control tower by radio that he was bringing the craft down for a landing.

He was over Newhall, on the upper fringe of the San Fernando valley, at 9,000 feet.

A Western Air Lines spokesman said at 6:45 a. m. — announcing that the craft was missing—that it had enough gas to remain aloft only until 7 a. m.

The flight, No. 23, had stopped at Las Vegas, Nev., at 1:45 a. m.

Western Air Lines' spokesman identified the pilot as Capt. Gerald Miller, the copilot as Ted Mathis and the stewardess as Joan Fauntleroy.

Names of the passengers were not immediately available.

The airline announced that the sheriff's aero squadron, the coast guard and the army's search and rescue unit had been alerted.

A heavy storm has been raging over southern California for two days, but during the night had abated sufficiently for planes to resume using busy Lockheed Air Terminal here. Snow was reported generally about the 4,000-foot level.

MERCURY PLUNGES TO 29-DEGREE LOW

The thermometer plunged to a low of 29 degrees last night at Hayesville as wintry blasts from the north kept temperatures around the freezing mark nearly everywhere in Ohio.

Despite generally clear skies yesterday, the high of the day was 45. Temperatures today also promised to stay below the 50-degree mark, and the weatherman said another cold night was in prospect. However, it's going to be slightly warmer tomorrow.

BLASTS ROCK FILM CAPITAL

HOLLYWOOD — (U.P.) — Homes of two non-striking movie studio workers were blasted early today by mysterious bombings which police said were connected directly with the strike dispute.

Most violent of the explosions was at the west Los Angeles home of Paul B. Byrd, Columbia studios superintendent. The entire neighborhood was shaken and windows shattered in several houses.

Byrd's home was partially destroyed by the bomb, either cautiously placed on the front porch a few minutes earlier or hurled there from a passing car. The porch was splintered, the front door blown off and all windows broken.

"This is definitely the work of the studio gangs," Detective Sgt. H. J. Compton said. "We are conducting a thorough investigation."

The second explosion was in the community of Hawthorne. Sheriff's deputies said it was the work of a single gang or collaborating group.

U. S. SEEKING TO GET OUT OF COAL BUSINESS

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The government called on the "big five" operators of the nation's soft coal mines today to come to terms with John L. Lewis and take back their federally operated pits.

With only three days left for further negotiations — and eight days before the expiration of the Nov. 20 deadline set by Lewis—the administration thus sought to avoid a repetition of last spring's paralyzing coal strike.

Lewis has stated flatly that the present government-union contract covering his 400,000 diggers would be "void" on Nov. 20 unless his demands are met for a new pact. Under Lewis' formula, he would give five days' advance notice on Friday of his intention to scrap the current agreement.

With time running out, an industry spokesman declared meanwhile that the country's major steel companies have been caught short on coal supplies.

The industry officials told a reporter that U. S. Steel corporation had only a two-week supply, Jones and Laughlin 10 days, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube a week.

In rapid succession, Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug scheduled a conference with representatives of the "big five" operators and then with Lewis himself.

Krug was due to broach the possibility of an agreement between the operators and Lewis, and later to take it up directly with the miners' boss.

Commenting on the outlook, Edward R. Burke, president of the powerful Southern Coal Producers association, said:

"It doesn't look too hopeful, but it is the only sensible thing to do."

The government has been running the 2,500 soft coal mines since last spring's strike.

Rescuers Push Way Through Wreckage After Boiler Blast

Falling Plaster, Wall Collapse, Warn of Blast

Girl Graphically Describes School Explosion.

BARODA, Mich. —(INS)— Eunice Emhoss, 16-year-old high school student, gave a graphic description today of the explosion in the Baroda school which killed or injured 40 children.

Eunice said:

"It was 11:30 and I was in the third floor chemical laboratory in the east wing. Suddenly there was a low rumbling sound. Smoke began to pour into the room and the wall plaster cracked and began to fall.

"We heard children screaming in the west wing, which has classrooms of the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades. We looked out the window and that wing seemed to be collapsing.

"My class in chemistry got out of the building in as orderly a manner as we could. People began to pour onto the school grounds offering help.

"I believe there were about 175 to 200 students in the building when the blast occurred."

Undersheriff Les Steese said deputies on the scene requested that Benton Harbor hospital be made ready to receive at least 40 victims.

He said first reports indicated that the boiler in the school basement was blown through the roof. The combination high school and grade school building had more than 100 children enrolled.

BULLETIN

BARODA, Mich.—(AP)—Sixteen pupils and their teacher were injured today in a boiler explosion that wrecked one room of a consolidated school.

BARODA, Mich.—(AP)—A steam boiler exploded in a rural school near here just before noon today but rescue workers first on the scene said they found no fatalities.

Ten or 12 children and one teacher later were reported injured in the blast in the basement of the building. Forty children were reported trapped in the collapse of two rooms.

All available fire and policemen rushed to the scene. A telephone operator said she feared "a lot of casualties."

Nels Erickson, a telephone repairman, said he visited the scene and watched rescuers pull 17 children from the debris.

He said he knew of no deaths but that "several of the children were seriously injured."

The blast occurred in the basement of the two-story building, Erickson said, and blew out the roof and one side of the building. He said two classrooms, for fifth and sixth grade students and junior high school pupils, were "demolished."

Erickson said the school enrollment numbers "from 175 to 200" students but that the number in the two classrooms was probably "40 to 50."

* * *

All Grades In School.

The school has students from primary grades through high school, Erickson added.

The explosion occurred about 11:30 a. m., he said.

An attendant at St. Joseph sanitarium said "between 30 and 40" children were taken there and that the hospital was told to prepare for 75. Many of them were treated only for shock and minor injuries, however.

Reported most seriously injured of those at St. Joseph was Alice Johns, whose age was not immediately available.

* * *

Calls for Aid.

Operator Florence Rutkowske said she had been directed to summon all available ambulances from surrounding communities and that she was further ordered to "make reservations in a lot of hospitals."

Reports conflicted, however, as to how many pupils were in the building, one hospital official believing nearly 200 were there at the time.

Only three injured children had been taken to Mercy hospital by 12:30 p. m. but Miss Sue Borden, superintendent, said "they are just beginning to bring them in now."

At least ten others were still in the basement and Sheriff Erwin Kubath called for fire masks to fight gas fumes in the rescue work.

Miss Borden said the three were "more frightened than hurt," suffering only from minor burns and bruises.

Other injured were reported taken to the St. Joseph sanitarium and to the Pawaiting hospital in Niles.

SNOW, FLOODS HIT CALIFORNIA

LOS ANGELES —(INS)— Snow and floods brought death and destruction to Southern California today.

Snow three feet deep matted mountain areas and flood waters collapsed a bridge and inundated homes in suburban areas.

The storm's fury was blamed for the death of a motorist, who lost control of his automobile on the ridge route and crashed into a tree.

Flood waters fed by steady rain swept into homes in Norwalk, Cal., and marooned 200 occupants of a trailer camp at Long Beach, Cal.

Several hundred motorists and bus passengers were reported marooned at Bakersfield by a two-foot blanket of snow on the ridge route.

Los Angeles rainfall for the storm beginning Monday boosted the season total to three times the normal season total.

Winds 25 to 35 miles an hour drove three small cabin cruisers ashore at Los Angeles Harbor.

Allen Resigns As Director Of Vet Center

Mansfielder Has Held Post Since Agency Was Formed.

William R. Allen, director of Mansfield's Veterans' Information center since its inception Oct. 1, 1945, resigned today.

In a brief letter to Ephraim H. Brown, president of the executive board of the center, Allen asked that his resignation be accepted, effective immediately.

Allen, a 32-year-old native Mansfielder, told the News-Journal that Brown had informed him the center is to be discontinued after Dec. 31 because of a decrease in requests from veterans for information.

"Mr. Brown said similar centers are closing in many cities," Allen said.

Allen is himself a veteran, having seen more than four years of service in the Royal Canadian Air Force, the Royal Air Force of England and the U. S. Army Air Force during World War II.

A flight sergeant in the Canadian and English air forces, Allen was a first lieutenant in the American air force when discharged Feb. 9, 1945. He saw action as a fighter pilot in England, Africa and Sicily.

He said he has no plans for the immediate future.

Brown said at noon he had not yet received Allen's resignation. He had no comment to make on Allen's statement that the center would be discontinued Dec. 31.

The center, a Community War Chest agency, was originally set up by a citizens' committee.

Quit the 'He-Man,' Pick 'Butter-Ball,' Professor Advises

BOSTON —(AP)— Take it from Harvard professor, girls — give your engagement ring back to the "he-man" and march a "butter-ball" to the altar.

That—in essence—is the advice of Harvard Anthropologist Earnest A. Hooton.

Prof. Hooton told an audience of men and women at Temple Israel Hall last night that:

The fat man—or "butter-ball type," loves physical comfort, relaxation, eating, ceremony and formality, has an even emotion and a love of people. He is a "remarkable family man and a good husband."

But the "he-man" is an anthropoid of a different prospect. According to Prof. Hooton, the "he-man" bangs his heels as he walks around the house and complains about not having enough exercise, and grows old quickly.

SALARY SCHEDULE BOOSTS PLANNED

Increases in pay of Mansfield public school teachers are now being worked out on a salary schedule basis, W. L. Miller, superintendent of schools, announced today.

The schedule calls for boosting minimum pay for teachers with bachelors degrees from $1,300 to $1,800. Maximum pay for these teachers will be jumped from $2,300 to $2,800. For teachers with masters degrees the top salary will be boosted from $2,500 to $3,000.

The new salary schedule will be put into effect when additional funds are available Jan. 15 under the recently-voted three-mill school levy.

TAFTS PLAN TRIP

CINCINNATI —(AP)—A vacation trip to Yucatan and Guatamala in Central America was announced last night by U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft.

Navy Backs Byrd's South Pole Expedition

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd, who had daring but little more on his three previous trips to the Antarctic, will have all the aid the navy and science can muster when he undertakes his fourth mission early next month.

Byrd will head an expeditionary force of 4,000 officers and men and 13 ships, including an aircraft carrier. Three hundred government scientists will carry on research work with the best equipment available.

The new expedition is the largest ever sent by the navy to the frigid south polar continent—an area equal to the combined size of the United States and Europe. Chief objectives are experimentation with cold weather operations, scientific and geological research and further exploration of the Antarctic's uncharted wastes.

Byrd, who had only limited funds and ancient equipment when he blazed the way to what is now Little America in 1928, revealed details of his forthcoming trek at a news conference yesterday.

He said the expedition will search for uranium, ingredient of atomic bombs, but emphasized it will not carry on a "uranium race" with other nations.

"True, the Antarctic is an untouched reservoir of natural resources," he added. "Naturally there's an interest in it from that standpoint. We will investigate all minerals there, including uranium."

Byrd will be in command of the overall mission. The task force will be headed by Capt. Richard H. Cruzen, Byrd's second in command on his 1939 expedition.

REDS NOW WILLING TO UNIFY GERMANY

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The Soviet Union today was reported to be ready to join the United States and Britain in unification of the economy of the three occupation zones of Germany.

This development was regarded as another hopeful sign in the relations between Russia and the western powers.

Pegler — Fair Enough

NEW YORK—E. P. Dutton and company, book publishers, of New York, are about to present a new work by John Roy Carlson, who admits in his preface that this is an alias. His real name is Derounian. It is called "The Plotters." The price is $3.50 and it is a continuation of an earlier book by Carlson, published in 1943, called "Under Cover," of which 700,000 copies were sold, also at $3.50, a gross sale of $2,450,000.

"Under Cover" was a subject of bitter controversy during the war years. It was criticized as a "smear" by members of the Dies committee and by John T. Flynn, a relentless and professionally impeccable rebel against the political, moral and intellectual terrorism waged by the department of justice and by private agencies which he has called "The Thought Police." George Sokolskey, the most scholarly of the daily commentators, regarded "Under Cover" as an outrage. However, the book thrived on notoriety and on a Sunday night nationwide campaign of radio promotion. It was particularly popular in the great military, naval and marine corps camps, whose young transient personnel were not equipped by either experience or knowledge of the ways of organized propaganda to resist this appeal to their credulity.

* * *

ON SEPT. 25 of this year, in the United States district court, in Chicago, Judge John P. Barnes ruled on a motion by George Washington Robnett, who had brought suit against E. P. Dutton and Co. to vindicate his name of aspersions included in "Under Cover" and for damages. A jury had found for Mr. Robnett but had thought that a moral victory was sufficient to make him whole, and thus awarded damages in only the nominal amount of one dollar. Mr. Robnett thought Dutton should be compelled to pay a substantial amount and so moved for a new trial "on the ground of inadequate damages."

Judge Barnes denied the motion Then, by extraordinarily vehement and contemptuous comment on the ethics and character of both Dutton and Derounian, or Carlson, he awarded the petitioner extra moral compensation.

"I think I may properly state that had this case been tried by the court without a jury, the court would have assessed damags in a very substantial sum," Judge Barnes said.

Judge Barnes then affirmed his faith in the jury system generally, but with the comment that "there are a lot of people out on the lunatic fringes of these questions," some of whom sometimes "get on the jury." He remarked, nevertheless, that it was to the very great credit of this jury that they had found Dutton guilty.

* * *

A FAVORABLE propaganda campaign already has begun over the air and in syndicated newspaper material in anticiption of the new Derounian, or Carlson, book, "The Plotters," through the same channels which extolled "Under Cover" as a patriotic work. Some newspapers doubtless will receive this motivated promotion material in the guise of informative comment and may publish or reject it at their discretion. Radio stations, however, have no facilities by which to eliminate selectively from national programs material which the operators may regard as false and surreptitious.

John Edmondson, an official of the publishing company, an attorney himself, said "I take it" that Dutton would not contest "in any legal way" Judge Barnes' total and unconditional charge against the integrity and reputation of a firm which is almost 100 years old. Hitherto this had been a fine reputation. For mitigation and comfort Edmondson fell back on a theory or belief that Judge Barnes developed "strong feeling against some personalities" in the defense, thus impugning his judicial fitness. He did not identify the personalities that he had in mind or undertake to support his charge of prejudice but said. "we do not feel that the character of Dutton can be decided by one citizen, even if he is a judge."

Othman — On Anything

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Now comes the worst shortage of all. Not enough letters in the alphabet.

We are running out of call letters for radio stations. An international conference on the crisis is in the offing. If that doesn't work, the only recourse is to the little man who names sleeping cars.

This is not funny. The federal communications commissioners are worrying. And well they might. The Mississippi river divides our radio stations into four-letter calls beginning with "W" in the east and "K" in the west—with some exceptions. We now have better than 100,000 licensed radio stations, including station KOP operated by the police in Detroit, and that's about the limit.

There are only 1,800 combinations beginning with "W" left. The "K" situation is little better. We still have about 5,000 of those, but every time a new ham goes on the air, or another taxi company installs cab-to-shore telephones, there goes another precious letter.

I have been checking this sorry shortage with the commission and before we go any further we'd better clear up the Detroit KOPs' station KOP which should be, under the regulations, station WOP. The KOPs snuck in and grabbed that "K" east of the Mississippi before the government began divvying up the alphabet. So did numerous other radio stations, including KDKA in Pittsburgh.

* * *

IN THE OLD DAYS, when the alphabet still had plenty of letters, most stations chose their own. That explains station WACO, in Waco, Tex., and station WIOD in Miami Beach, Fla.

"What?" I cried.

"Yep," said the man at the FCC, "WIOD means wonderful isle of dreams. Cute, hey?"

The commissioners have let no letters go to waste. So it is that station KGB at San Diego, Calif., inherited the call of the steamer D. H. Luckenbach, sunk by a submarine in 1917. KOB, now the call of a broadcaster in Albuquerque, N. M., used to belong to the steamship Princess, which broke up two years ago on Rockaway Shoals off the New York coast.

The trouble is that segments of the alphabet are divided among the nations of the world by international treaty. We've got to get more letters, but how do we know those Russians, for instance, will even slip us a "Z"? We don't That's where the Pullman man comes in.

In South America many a radio station ignores its official letters and calls itself radio magnificent, radio superb, or radio wonderful Those southern radio fellers are not hampered by false modesty They have set the precedent.

The Pullman car namer probably would try to call a radio station the Ulysses S. Grant, or possibly the Sleeping Princess. There used to be a lady in the maritime commission who spent her time naming liberty ships, but she soon ran out of heroes. Philanthropists, colleges, and scientists. She was so desperate (and she had nowhere near 100,000 ships to name) that I almost talked her into naming one the Fred Othman.

She didn't. She gave it another name. Later it sank at the dock.

CITY SELECTED AS TEST CENTER

Mansfield has been selected by the Navy department as a testing center for high school students aspiring to be among the 5,000 selected throughout the nation for free college educations under the navy's new programs, the Mansfield Navy recruiting station announced today.

Two programs, a naval reserve officers training corps, and a navy aviators college program, are being offered to the winners of the competitive examinations to be held on Jan. 18, 1947.

Successful candidates, who also must pass physical examinations, may select a college of their choice from among 52 approved by the navy. The educational grant includes four years tuition with books, normal fees and $50 a month.

Students must agree to accept commissions in the navy as ensigns or second lieutenants in the Marine corps upon graduation. After two years' service they may resign and return to civilian life with commissions in the organized reserve corps.

Application blanks and descriptive bulletins stating requirements are available in the office of the Mansfield Senior high school. Applications must reach the naval examining sections college entrance board at Princeton, N. J., by Dec. 7.

ACCOUNTING FIRMS ARE CONSOLIDATED

Walter W. Willis, partner in Willis and Willis, public accountants, today announced consolidation with H. D. Osmond of H. D Osmond and Company, accountants and auditors. The offices of the two firms will be at 60 Ashland road, Mansfield.

Expanding demands of a growing clientele were given as the reasons for bringing the two organizations into closer association. They will offer accounting, tax service and business counsel.

Willis has practiced public accounting in Mansfield for nearly 25 years. Osmond moved here from Green Bay, Wis., a year ago. He is a certified Wisconsin public accountant with more than 20 years' experience in large industrial firms.

ASHLAND—Dr. H. S. Telford is newly elected president of the Ashland Naturalist's society which met in the library building of Ashland college for efection and business.

Dr. Paul D. Harwood was named program chairman; Burton Kahl, secretary and Mrs. R. W. Bixler, treasurer. The society will meet again December 10.

O'Donnell Youth Hurt In Accident

Hugh O'Donnell, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. O'Donnell, 191 Lind avenue, was slightly injured about 4:30 p. m. yesterday when he collided with an automobile while riding a bicycle on Glessner avenue.

Police said the car was driven by Harvey Willsey, 509 Parkview street. The youth was treated for head lacerations at General hospital, and dismissed.

Police also reported a collision between an automobile driven by Delarey L. Black, 40 Harmon avenue, and one operated by James K. Deakins, 176 South Franklin avenue, at 8 p. m. yesterday on North Main street.

Black was arrested on a charge of driving a motor vehicle with a temporary permit without being accompanied by a licensed operator. He told police his brakes were defective.

Council Tables Firemen's Bid For $25 Monthly Pay Boost

A request from city firemen for pay increases of $25 a month and $50-a-year clothing allowances was tabled for further study last night by city council.

Some of the councilmen expressed doubt that the city has sufficient funds to grant the increases this year and pointed out that if pay boosts are authorized they would have to include all city employes and not just firemen.

All city employes were granted $10 increases last May, but firemen pointed out that the higher cost of living makes another increase necessary.

Council last night appropriated $20,000 from various surplus funds to finance operation of several city departments through the rest of the year.

Among the appropriations was $200 from the general fund to a Christmas lighting fund to help finance the lights and decorations to be erected in Central park late this month.

Council also authorized appropriations for construction of a whiteway boulevard street lighting system on Glen Beck lane, and transferred $1,150 from the water works fund to a new classification providing for purchase of new water meters.

Another $2,600 was appropriated for auto maintenance and transportation, pumping stations maintenance, additional new water meters and payroll accounts.

Councilmen accepted the county budget commission's 1947 tax scale for municipal services which represents a four-tenths mill reduction from this year's rate.

The 1947 tax rates set up by the budget commission for the city include 3.47 mills within the 10-mill limitation and four-tenths of a mill outside the limitation.

This is a reduction of four-tenths of a mill because of a cut in one levy and the expiration of another. A total of $222,684 is expected to be realized through the two rates.

2 Firms Seek to Provide City With Wastepaper Containers

With two firms competing for the right, Mansfield was virtually assured today of having some two dozen waste paper containers installed in the downtown section at no cost to the city.

R. B. Burnham, of Burnham's Outdoor Advertising company, is the second applicant for a waste paper container license. His application follows by more than a month that of John Gottfried. It was submitted last night to city council.

Both want permission to install some 25 metal containers and to rent advertising space on them to merchants and provide free advertising space on them for civic programs. They would be set out early next year.

Burnham asks that the city street department be authorized to empty his proposed containers while Gottfried told councilmen he would employ his own collector.

Council last night authorized the hiring of a construction inspector for the Clear Fork dam project, authorized construction of a sanitary sewer in the Burns-Stark streets area and vacated a section of Highland avenue west of Fairlawn avenue.

Ritchie Named To Moose Post

Paul R. Ritchie, clerk of the Mansfield municipal court has been elected to the advisory board of the Ohio State Moose association, a lodge official revealed today.

This appointment adds to the Moose honors which Ritchie has received since becoming a member of the Mansfield lodge in 1936 Since that time he has served as past governor of the lodge, and at present is serving as a member of the Moose state press association, publicity agent for the Moose Fifth district, and as editor of the local Moose organ, "Moose Call."

PRAISES WATER SAFETY STAFF

Special tribute was paid to the Red Cross water safety volunteers yesterday by Fred Bardsley, director of first aid and water safety, before the monthly board meeting of the Richland county Red Cross chapter.

Reporting on the water safety programs, held last summer at Liberty park and North Lake park pools and in Shelby, Bardsley said that success of the program would have been impossible without the help of the young men and women swimmers in Mansfield who gave their time to the project.

Progress of Junior Red Cross enrollment in the city's public schools was reported by Mrs. Ephraim Brown, who said that of five schools already participating in the program, four have 100 per cent enrollments. They are Prospect, Robbins kindergarten, Maplegrove and Lincoln Heights. Senior high school was reported to have an 80 per cent enrollment.

Presiding at the meeting was Sam Campbell, chairman of the Richland county chapter.

PINS PRESENTED TO 24 BROWNIES

Twenty-four members of Brownie Troop 37 of Western avenue school were invested last night in ceremonies conducted by Mrs. J. H. Boyd, member of the Girl Scout council, at North Lake park pavilion.

Guests were mothers of the Brownies, who witnessed the pin presentation by Mrs. C. C. Warner and Mrs. R. C. Paulson, co-leaders of the troop. Assisting them were Nancy Bair and Connie Paulson, intermediate scouts from Troop 12.

Girls invested included: Mary Alice Boyd, Helen Eckstrom, Barbara Ellen Edwards, Martha Jane Farry, Ellen Jo Fankhauser, Nancy Griebling, Colleen Hall, Sandra Hartman, Carolyn Herring, Carol Jean Hurst, Elaine Kaufman, Sherry Pat Kyler, Judy Maxwell, Barbara McClary, Jacqueline McClure, Patty Ohler, Phyllis Paulson, Patricia Robinson, Shirley Ann Walters, Susanne Warner, Janet Weaver, Sandra Weber, Paula Weir and Maddy Sue Lawrence.

Guest speaker was Mrs. Myrtle Ruff, Girl Scout executive. A gift of appreciation was presented to Mrs. Paulson by Phyllis Paulson from the former Brownies.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by the scouts.

SCHEIDLER HEADS ROSELAND GRANGE

Robert Scheidler was elected master of the Roseland Grange at the annual election meeting attended by 45 patrons last night in the Delano lodge hall.

Refreshments were served following the election.

Newly elected officers will be installed by a degree team from the Richland County Pomona grange at the next meeting Dec. 10.

Other officers elected were: Robert Bogantz, overseer; Ollie LaRue, lecturer; Olan Moore, secretary; John Pocock, treasurer; Lloyd Prosser, gatekeeper; Annabelle Beckel, chaplain; George Curry, steward; Mary Stoner, assistant steward; Elmira Griffith, lady assistant steward; Alice Curry, Ceres, and Laura Nelson, Pomona.

Mansfielder Faces Charge by Police

Richard E. Moore, rear 271 North Franklin avenue, was in city jail today, charged with keeping a house of prostitution.

Police said he was arrested in Massillon on a warrant and returned here today for hearing. The case will probably be heard tomorrow in municipal court, officers said.

PAY FOR PARADING—

Musicians who like marching airs are now offered an opportunity to earn while they parade. The Navy department is seeking enlistments of experienced musicians regardless of the instrument they play. Mansfield's navy recruiters said the navy is open for applications from musicians from 17 to 31 whether they are veterans who previously served in musical organizations, or newcomers. Applicants will be given a final musical examination at the Navy School of Music, Washington, D. C.

ROUGH 'T—

While oldsters are beginning to turn up the coat collars these chilly evenings, the Girl Scouts are proving they can take it by embarking on their November program of overnight camping. Site of this strictly outdoor activity is the Scout camp Niniwan on the Greter's Lake road, where the camp fire will blaze brightly next Friday night when Miss Ruth Carnahan's Troop 28 takes its turn. The Program Aides, a group of senior scouts who assist troop leaders, had their overnight outing over Armistice day.

HE LOST—

Taking precedence over other traffic late yesterday afternoon was a wheelbarrow propelled by Ralph Moore, manager of the Fair Play service station, down the center of Park avenue east. In the wheelbarrow were first, Pete Hergett, and then Phil Hergett, each of whom got a free ride seated on a chair in the wheelbarrow. The ride for each was from the station to the Blue Goose cafe. It was all due to Moore's lack of faith in the local boys. After Mansfield high school's defeat by Toledo Waite, he wagered that the Tygers would not win another game — and today his aching muscles still remind him that he lost.

STEERING GROUP TO GUIDE SCOUTS

Plans to organize a Girl Scout steering committee to formulate project ideas for the 50 Mansfield scout troops were announced today by Mrs. Myrtle Ruff, local Girl Scout executive.

The steering committee will include representatives of the five senior scout troops. This committee is expected to be announced this month and a leader chosen for the group.

Meeting once a month, the committee will entertain new ideas for use in troop projects for discussion in the various local troops.

The plan, Mrs. Ruff said, is designed to furnish Girl Scouts with new ideas upon which they can build their own program.

TAPPAN ASKS CONSTRUCTION OF BIG SEWER

Firm Representative Cites Huge Losses to Industry During Heavy Rains.

A plan for the control of flash floods, which as recent as June caused heavy damage here, was being studied by city councilmen today.

It marks the first step toward controlling heavy rain waters which periodically have caused thousands of dollars in damages to plants and homes in the flood areas.

Presented to councilmen by a representative of the Tappan Stove company last night, the plan provides for the construction of an enlarged storm sewer in the Wayne-Orange streets district.

Drawn By Engineers.

Richard Tappan, of the stove company, said that the plan has been drawn by an engineering firm in conjunction with his company and the Westinghouse Electric corporation. The two firms were hard hit during the recent floods.

Tappan told councilmen that the floods, in addition to being a menace in themselves, constitute an even more dangerous hazard by threatening explosions at the stove company and the Westinghouse corporation.

He said that only through use of sand-bags was water prevented from reaching enameling furnaces during the June floods. Water entering the furnaces, he said, could cause explosions in the factory areas which might result in widespread damage, and loss of life.

Saved By Inch.

"If the water had risen another inch and one-half an explosion probably would have occurred in June," he said. He said that a furnace explosion in West Virginia recently covered four or five acres.

In addition, if furnaces of the two firms were put out of commission some 45 per cent of the working people in Mansfield would be out of jobs for about six months, he said.

"About 95 per cent of the two firms' production goes through the enameling furnaces," Tappan pointed out.

In recommending action on the plan, Tappan said that while the city has the responsibility of enlarging the storm sewer system in the flood area, the two companies plan to take additional precautions.

He said that plans are underway for the construction of dikes, digging of wells and the shunting of water away from railroad entrances to buildings.

Council referred the plan to the sewer committee for study.

Parks Group Names Shadel

S Jay Shadel became president of the Mansfield Public Parks association last night at the annual election meeting of the organization at Liberty park pavilion.

Shadel, who was vice president of the association, will succeed Emil Eisen as head of the group. Taking over the vice presidency is Harvey FitzSimmons.

Re-elected to their respective posts of secretary and treasurer were Hollis J. Quinlan and Howard Eller.

Shadel will represent Johns park, FitzSimmons and Quinlan Maple Lake park and Eller, North Lake park.

Preceding the meeting, delegats and their wives had a chicken dinner at the pavilion.

RUBBISH BLAZES

Firemen were called to 257½ North Mulberry street today about 10:5 a. m. to extinguish a fire in some rubbish on a rear porch. There was no damage to the home, they said.

History of Printing Traced For Optimist Club Members

Although the German Johann Gutenberg is popularly credited with the invention of movable type, about 1438 A. D., later research has led some to claim that the inventor was a Dutchman, Laurens Janzoon Coster, Ken Woodman, executive editor of The News-Journal, last night told Co-operative club members and guests.

Whoever the inventor, Woodman pointed out in a talk entitled, "How This Meeting Will Get in Tomorrow's Newspaper," the use of the movable type was the key to the modern day newspaper

"In 50 B. C. the Chinese originated the first printing which used ink on an engraved block pressed against a paper," Woodman said. "Nine hundred and 75 years later the Chinese expanded this initial discovery from a word to a page of printed matter.

Stagnated Until 1400.

"Further progress stagnated until about 1400 A. D. when the system of block lettering was developed in Spain. From this development there was the sequence which finally led to the use of movable type by Gutenberg or Coster.

The first press in the new world was set up in Mexico City, Mexico. The first press in the United States was established at Harvard College in 1639. It was the forerunner of the present University Pres.

News Six Years Late.

"The first real newspaper in the western world was published in 1498 It published 'hot' news in that it told of witch burnings. It was not up-to-date, however, as it published the story of the discovery of America by Columbus six years after that event.

"The first 'foreign correspondents' date back to 1615. They were employed by the Frankfurt, (Germany) Journal to write articles for the paper while serving as government officials in various countries.

"The first sales of newspaper advertsing occurred in 1648, and the first market reports appeared in the paper in 1790."

Traces Daily Story.

Woodman then traced the daily news story from the reporter's pad over the city and managing editor's desks to the composing and press rooms.

R Earl Brandenburg, program chairman, introduced the speaker, after it had been announced that the next club meeting would be on Nov. 21 at 6:30 p. m. in the Mansfield-Leland hotel, where last night's meeting took place. It will be a ladies' night.

PILES ARE NEVER MILD

DANGER IN NEGLECT

No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids as a "mild" disorder.

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formations without tendency to heal themselves. Instead, they are likely, if neglected, to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as: indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in the back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its run-down tired feeling and general nervous irritability.

Removal of piles is the only permanent relief — written guarantee. My method produces little or no discomfort, does not require the use of knife or drugs, and seldom is the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties.

ANNOUNCE VFW HEADLINERS

Carbetta, Alexander Signed

Paul Carbetta and Dick Alexander, Mansfield's current fistic sensations, will headline the first annual Christmas fight show being arranged by the Veterans of Foreign Wars for presentation in the Armory on November 27.

Carbetta and Alexander, both World War II vets, have fashioned outstanding records since their service discharges and will battle in eight-round goes according to Tom Posa, VFW fight chairman. Local pro promoters Rex Reese and Sam Miller are serving as matchmakers for the VFW.

A portion of the proceeds for the all-star professional show will go to the CFW Children's Home at Eaton Rapids, Mich.

Paul has won 19 of 20 fights since deserting the simon-pure ranks and will get one of his toughest tests when he meets Frankie Gerrard in a semi-final event at Toledo tonight. The local 124-pounder has been absent from the ring since last summer when he decisioned Teddy Lewis at the Armory.

Paul Chaney, 124, Delaware, has been signed to collide with Carbetta while Lefty Lou Williams, 147, Dayton, gets a shot at Alexander Williams fought on the last Mansfield pro program and kayoed Wally Barkley of Massillon in the second round.

The Dayton southpaw is plenty strong and packs a terrific wallop in either hand presaging a rough time for ex-Gob Alexander. Dick, who has looked better each time out, now boasts seven straight pro victories.

Joe Brown, the unorthodox heavyweight, gets a crack at Joe Ceryak, Cleveland, in the third eight-round battle on the program. Strictly a walloper, Brown has copped two in a row in a Mansfield ring and three weeks ago polished off Kid Esmont, Canton, in the first round

Brown is fighting a main event at Buckeye Lake tonight and both he and Alexander are booked for headliners next Wednesday in Canton.

Three preliminary bouts will be lined up to open the all-star show.

State Offense Tops Big Nine

CHICAGO—(AP)—Ohio State, taking over the Western conference rushing lead with an average of 223 yards per game, springs its power Saturday on Illinois, which paces the Big Nine in the title chase but is ranked sixth offensively and fourth defensively.

While Northwestern's ground attack was nearly stalled against Indiana last week, the Buckeyes replaced the Wildcats as the best running team and also kept their lean on total offense. Combining averages of 223 yards by running and 109 by passing, Ohio State's total per game is 332. Northwestern, dropping to second on rushing with 222.8 has a total offense record of 308 2. Michigan is third in this department with 284.6

Indiana maintains its passing lead with an average of 130 8 yards gained per game, while Purdue is second with 115 8 The Boilermakers are the only team in the conference to gain more yards through the air than on the ground. They have a 112 4 average by rushing.

Although leading the Big Nine title race, the Illini's total offense record is a 231.8 yard average, while opponents have made a net gain of 238 4 against them.

Whippets To Be Awarded Trophy at League Meeting

SHELBY — Shelby's Whippets will receive the Northern Ohio league grid trophy tonight at a dinner meeting at Norwalk high school.

Coach Al Fendrick, mentor of the Whippets will accept the trophy on behalf of the champions. An honorary all-league team will be selected by sports writers and coaches. Election of league officials will take place, Peter Weibe, Willard principal, and league president, announced.

Ted Doesn't Approach Babe . . .

NEW YORK—(CP)—Ted Williams may be the greatest hitter in baseball today but according to Bucky Harris, new manager of the New York Yankees, The Kid doesn't begin to approach the mighty Babe Ruth.

"You can't mention him in the same breath with Ruth," Harris declared as the hot stove league settled down to its weekly session in the ornate Bronx Bomber barracks.

The trouble with Williams according to Bucky, is that he can be pitched to effectively. To prove the point he cited how the Cardinals handcuffed the kid in the world series by serving them up to Williams high and inside.

"They wouldn't have gotten away with that long against Ruth," Harris declared. "The first they knew he'd have parked one in the seats."

The Yanks, and Harris in particular, still have a great deal of respect for the splendid splinter from Fenway park and Bucky emphasizes same by announcing he will continue to use the "Boudreau shift" against Ted.

"Ninety per cent of Williams' hits go to right field and will until he learns how to hit to left," Harris said. "So we definitely will use that shift to the right side of the infield and keep our third baseman in position to protect us against bunts."

Ferry's Strong Defensively; Tyger Sophs Whip Shelby, 26-0

Mansfield Senior high footballers will go up against a strong defensive aggregation with plenty of moxie Friday night at Martins Ferry.

The Purple Riders have won four, lost four, and tied one this season. Coach Fred Thomas' team has participated in a screwy season They have won games they should have lost and lost games where they were the favorites.

Martins Ferry opened with a 6-2 win over Union of Benwood W. Va and then spanked Bridgeport, 26-12. Bridgeport has lost only one game since and is the top scoring team in the Ohio valley. The Riders then dropped identical 13-6 decisions to Wheeling and Triadelphia

They came back to score three times in the final eight minutes to trip Mingo Junction, 19-6, but fell before Bellaire, 7-0. Martins Ferry rose to heights by beating East Liverpool, 6-0, and tying Steubenville, 7-7. Steubenville tied Canton McKinley and lost to Massillon by only one touchdown.

Linsly Military Institute of Wheeling defeated Ferry, 7-0, last week.

The opposition has failed to score more than 13 points against Thomas' eleven and none of the defeats have been by more than one touchdown.

Last year Mansfield dropped a 13 to 7 contest to the Riders and will go into Friday's game rated as a slight favorite.

Co-captain Virgil "Flea" Oancea, scatback, who has missed the last four games through injuries, may see a little action for the Ohio river club.

Frank "Pedro" Twardoski, 153-pound junior, is the top Purple running and passing threat.

Kenny Horvath, ace Tyger fullback, returned to classes yesterday for the first time since he suffered a broken leg in practice three weeks ago.

Mansfield Tyger sophomores concluded their 1946 grid season by whipping the Shelby reserves, 26 to 0, last night under the lights at Skiles field in Shelby.

Coach Fred Staub's Cubs punched over a pair of touchdowns in the second period and added two more in the third. The Bengal sophs copped seven out of eight games this season.

Joe Miller, Tyger quarter, passed for one touchdown and scored one himself on a three yard blast through the line. He passed to Bernie Weaver for 30-yards and another tally.

Lou Gregorio raced 16 yards offtackle for a TD and Lou Gregorio annexed the other on a 24-yard sprint. John Corcoran added two extra points.

Mansfield had 14 first downs to Shelby's nine.

Winter Weather's on the Way!

Here Are Oldsmobile's Recommended
COLD WEATHER SERVICES

CHECK COOLING SYSTEM—The radiator and entire cooling system should be drained, flushed out, and thoroughly inspected. Hose connections should be tightened where necessary

INSTALL ANTI-FREEZE—Sufficient anti freeze should be put in to protect your car from a damaging freeze in even the coldest weather that can be expected.

TUNE ENGINE—Your motor should be put in shape to assure you of quick, easy starting, and economical performance no matter how low the thermometer goes.

CHANGE ENGINE OIL—A lighter oil that will circulate freely at below-freezing temperatures is a necessity for easy starting and the prevention of excessive winter wear.

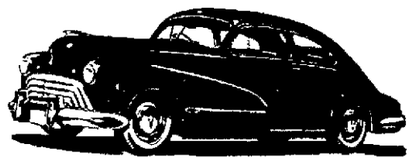
LUBRICATE CAR—The entire chassis should be scientifically lubricated to prevent wear. The lubricants in stand ard transmission and differen tial should be changed to a winter grade. Hydra-Matic Drive fluid need not be changed unless necessary.

CHECK ELECTRICAL SYSTEM—There's a heavier load on battery, generator, starter and ignition system during cold weather These should be in spected, put in good condition, and protected with a coating of PiB

CHECK SAFETY FEATURES—Brakes should be adjusted and put in top-notch condition. Windshield wipers should be checked. Heater and defroster connections should be inspected

PROTECT FINISH—Snow and ice and road-clearing chemicals are tough on the finish of your car. A wash and polish, or a Liquid Glaze job—and touch-up treatment—will protect both paint and chrome.

If You Have a New Oldsmobile on the Way—



Materials shortages and unavoidable production delays are keeping our deliveries behind schedule. Better keep your present car up with regular service . . . until that style-leading new Oldsmobile arrives!

"For Two Cents, I'd..."

"For two cents, I'd entrust my savings to business. I'd invest my surplus funds in securities ...and share in the ownership, the risks and the rewards of American industry."

This may not be precisely what the investor says, or even thinks . . . but it is what he does!

For slightly less than two cents out of the corporate income dollar (U. S. Department of Commerce figures for 1945), the American investor provides industry with the funds needed to create jobs and produce goods.

The ability of industry to obtain funds on such a basis is a striking indication of our people's faith in business efficiency . . . of their confidence in the future of our business enterprise.

MARKET PLACE FOR INVESTORS

This Exchange is an essential part of the financial mechanism which puts the people's savings to productive use Countless investors entrust their surplus funds to business enterprise only because they know there is always a ready market for their securities. To those who use its facilities, the Exchange offers this advice: Do not invest your money in securities, or any other form of property, until you have the facts—all the facts. Tips and rumors have no place in a sound investment decision.

CHATTERER IS BESIDE HIMSELF

Chatterer the Red Squirrel was a busy person For that matter, so were all his cousins, including Striped Chipmunk. It was the harvest season, and Chatterer had no intention of going hungry in the coming winter. If he didn't get his share of nuts and other good things put away in his storehouses, it wouldn't be because of laziness on his part

He has sharp eyes, has Chatterer. They seem to be extra sharp where food is concerned. They miss little that is within their range. Even when he is hurrying home with his mouth full Chatterer never fails to look as he runs, and many a choice goody has he spied to return for.

He was hurrying home with a fat hickory nut. It was from a tree a little farther from home than he had been before this season. As usual, he kept looking from side to side. He was about half way home when he saw off to one side something brownish-white among the russet brown leaves that covered the ground. He knew at once what it was. Nothing else had quite that color. He put down the fat hickory nut and scampered over to make sure he wasn't mistaken. He wasn't. It was a mushroom, a fine big mushroom of a kind of which he is especially fond.

His eyes sparkled. I suspect he licked his lips. That mushroom was to him, what a box of choice candy might be to you or me.

"I'll put that nut away, then come back and get this mushroom and put it to dry. It is just right for that now. I haven't too many mushrooms this year, and I certainly do like them. They make a welcome change in food. One does get tired of the same thing over and over, meal after meal," thought he.

He ran back to the fat nut, picked it up and started on. He had hardly more than started when whom should he meet but Slowpoke the Box Turtle, the fellow who carries his house with him and in time of danger withdraws wholly into it and closes the doors so tightly that he is quite safe from teeth and claws. Slowpoke and Mrs. Slopoke look so much alike that Chatterer wasn't sure which this was until he was near enough to see the color of the eyes. They were bright red. Then he knew that this was Slowpoke. Mrs. Slowpoke's eyes are yellow Chatterer couldn't speak because he had that fat nut in his teeth. He didn't want to speak anyway. He had no special interest in Slowpoke. Indeed, he looked on him with something like contempt because he was so slow It never had entered his head that there was anything wonderful about that turtle, and he had known him for a long time. Yet here was the only person of his acquaintance, excepting Mrs. Slowpoke in a house with two doors that could be closed instantly in the face of an enemy.

It must be awful to have to be so slow getting about," thought the lively little Squirrel as he raced along surprisingly fast considering the big nut he was carrying. Then he forgot all about Slowpoke. Not being satisfied to leave that nut in the first storehouse he went to, he took it to another farther away. So it was some time before he returned for that nice mushroom. Perhaps you would have called it a toadstool, but all so-called toadstools really are mushrooms.

As soon as he was near enough to really see it, he discovered that something had happened to it. A piece was missing from it. It looked as if some one had taken a bite out of it. Some one had. It was Slowpoke the Turtle. Peter didn't see him at first, having eyes only for the mushroom and Slowpoke being partly hidden from him by some leaves. In fact, he almost ran into him. He was stopped by a sharp hiss. Then he saw Slowpoke and he knew who had bitten that piece out of the mushroom

"Thief shrieked Chatterer. "That's mushroom! I saw it first"

"I got it first," hissed the Turtle.

STOCK MARKET DRIFTS LOWER

NEW YORK —(INS)— The stock market drifted generally lower in forenoon dealings today. Losses exceeded a point with no particular section under pressure.

Trading was light throughout the first two hours.

Steels, which were relatively steady at the start, turned downward with the rest of the list. U. S. Steel declined nearly a point and fractions were shaved off Bethlehem, Youngstown and Jones and Laughlin. Chrysler dipped slightly after opening unchanged and General Motors lost almost a point. Liquors came in for some selling, also, with American Distilling down over a point.

Copper and mining shares were not spared. U. S. Smelting suffered a point set-back and lesser declines were sustained by Anaconda and International Nickel Santa Fe led the railroads downward with a more than a point loss. U. S. Rubber was a soft spot in its group and a point lower at one time.

A number of issues held firm including American Telephone, Dome Mines, United Aircraft and Wilson.

Bonds and curb shares eased.

BULL KILLS FARMER

JOHNSTOWN, O. —(AP)— A bull gored Ulysses W. Belt, 78, to death yesterday at his Licking county farm near here.

THEY'RE BUSINESSMEN—These N-J carriers and businessmen know the tricks of their trade. For instance, it's important to a newsboy to know just how to fold that final edition so that it will land squarely on your doorstep. Here, Howard Reynolds, left, demonstrates the correct procedure to fellow carriers David Eyerly, Roger Phillips, Jim Lorentz, Richard Esbenshade and Mearl Durbin. (News-Journal staff photo)

* * * * *

Carrier Boys Are Town's Youngest 'Business Men'

They're the youngest "business men" in town—the News-Journal carrier boys.

Take, for instance, the sextet of 11-year-old David Eyerly, 12-year-old Richard Esbenshade, 13-year-olds Jim Lorentz, Howard Reynolds and Mearl Durbin and 14-year-old Roger Phillips.

Among them they've carried papers for an approximate total of eight years. Making from $5 to $12 a week from their routes, they buy their own clothes, boyish luxuries and start savings accounts.

David, youngest of the group, has the longest record for paper "toting. Every week for the past three years he's managed to put aside an average of $5 for personal expenses, and he's quite sure he's getting "plenty of good business experience. David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Eyerly, 490 Springmill street.

Roger, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Phillips, 693 McPherson street, is convinced that carrying papers is a good way to make money and backs it up with a weekly $6 savings. Ambitious beyond his own route, Roger often takes over other districts for vacationing carriers.

Howard started carrying News-Journals about two months ago and already has $41 saved for a bike to help him out on his rounds. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Reynolds, 491 Springmill street.

"I think carrying papers is a swell job!" Mearl says. Mearl started on his route a month ago and likes to see that $6 go into the savings sock weekly. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Durbin, 565 Springmill street.

Paper peddling is a pretty cold business in the winter, but the easiest part of the job is "taking in the dough," according to Jim, son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Lorentz, 397 North Mulberry street. Jim's carried papers for two years.

Best weekly average of the group belongs to Richard Esbenshade, who says he makes about $12 from his route. He has no fault to find with the papercarrying business, but he has encountered a couple of unfriendly dogs on his route. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Esbenshade, 903 Benedict avenue.

Senior Class Will Present 'Spring Dance' Nov. 21-22

Phillip Barry's delightfully young "Spring Dance," a three-act comedy of college romance, will be presented Nov. 21 and 22 by the Senior high school class of 1947 in the high school auditorium, Earl L. Heasley, Senior high speech and dramatics coach, announced yesterday.

Leading roles of Sam Thatcher and Alex Benson will be taken by John Bishop and Anne Parsons, both enrolled in the high school advanced dramatics class and well known to community audiences for their forensic work.

Bishop, who was a member of the prize-winning one-act play, "The Clod," entered in the state contest last spring by the Senior high school, was voted one of the eight best humorous readers in the state at the Ohio State university finals.

Barry, who has achieved fame as one of America's best playwrights, is the author of "You and I," "The Youngest," "Holiday," "Paris Bound," and many others.

Others in Cast.

Other members of the advanced dramatics class appearing in the production are Mary Ann Maple, Frankie Lane and Patricia O'Hara. The cast will also include Doris Alverson, James Garrison, John Brandt, Robert Frere, William Hallabrin, Dorothy Speck, James Londot and Jean Daugherty.

Assisting Heasley as prompter will be Virginia McMichael.

Members of the production staff for the play are: business staff—Mary Ann Bahl, manager, Joanne Fay, Marian Gilbert and Robert Schrack; property committee—Marilyn Worthley, manager, Patty Lybarger, Earl Long, Portia Schiller; advertising staff — Charles Lewis, manager, Jane Manz, Eleanor Fox, Richard Flockencier and William Dormaier; ushers—Betty Timmons, manager; Lois Hershey, Eileen Mellick, Erma Jenkins, Sally Kirtpatrick, Margaret Burger, Hazel Donelson, Betty Blake, Mary Cole, Dorla Wagner, Wyona Conner, Sally Brunk, Janeen Funston and Shirley Robinson.

Loesch is Supervisor.

Harold Loesch, Senior high English instructor, will serve as supervisor to the property committee.

Scenery design will be in charge of the art department under the direction of Miss Mary Jane Bolus. Furnishings for the production will be donated by the W. E. Jones Piano House.

Among previous outstanding plays presented by senior classes under Heasley's direction have been: "Our Town," by Thornton Wilder. "The Enemy" by Channing Pollock, "Stage Door," by George S. Kaufman and Edna Ferber, and last year's performance of "Uncle Harry," by Thomas Job.

Inflation Moving Toward Recession

EXCEPT for the rush of Christmas gift buying, which is expected to reach record-breaking proportions, there is appearance of inclination on the part of the buying public to ease up on the purchase of commodities not immediately needed, which have been jumped in price because of scarcity.

Government experts in Washington seem to detect growing evidence that a downward readjustment of prices may be near—that while the general price trend is still upward. declines are already taking place here and there. (Mostly "there," it would appear.)

General feeling among Washington economists is reported as being that the inflation which started with government war spending has almost run its course, and that an economic reshuffling is about to take place.

Not until next year, however, is a general price decline expected, although some economists predict that the start will come soon after January 1. That will mark a crucial point in the national economy, as there is no way of knowing whether the resultant business recession will be only a mild readjustment or a tailspin.

Those who think the decline will be comparatively mild point to the backlog of consumer demands, the housing shortage, high wages and the huge reservoir of war-time savings as cushions against a disastrous downward spiral.

It is noted that increased prodution will tend to pull prices down, although release of goods from OPA price controls may result in holding them up temporarily, which encourages proponents of the theory that only essentials should be bought while prices are higher than considered "reasonable"—so that supplies are given a chance to catch up with demands.

When Theories Clash With Realities

AN INTERESTING thing happened in England the other day. Prime Minister Clement Attlee, head of the Labor government, got up and told trade union leaders and his party members in parliament that unless labor worked harder and produced more its ideas of how a country should be run would come to nothing.

It is ever thus! Those who know exactly what radical changes should be made to make everybody happy become conservative in a short time after they are given the job to do and full authority to do it. Having the responsibility for success is quite a bit different from just having the opportunity to criticize.

But the real point is this: labor in this country, while not organized as a political entity nor seeking socialization of a great part of U. S. industry, still is after much the same objectives as the British Laborite. Summed up briefly these are security and more pay for less work.

No one quarrels with these objectives, save that short of the millennium few thinking people expect to have security handed to them on a platter.

As for economic welfare, it is a simple rule of human behavior that prosperity comes to those who can produce and market the most or get someone else to do the job for them.

Labor in Britain is having its day. It is coming up against the simple realities of economics which have been generally ignored for a decade and a half.

Perhaps we—and Britain—will one day return to the sound concept that it is the responsibility of government to insure to all men the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness in jobs and homes which their abilities can best provide.

However, the last decade and a half has not been lost. It has added one new task for government, which perhaps the founding fathers did not recognize or did not state too clearly. This task is to guarantee to the young, the sick and the old the same rights which able-bodied men and women are usually glad to work to achieve.

Threat To 'Individual Transportation'

THE IDEA of making "individual transportation" available to all Americans, as was promoted by automobile manufacturers in the low-price field for a number of years preceding the war, is likely to go glimmering as would-be buyers of new cars find none priced within the top limit of their purchasing power.

Tacking another $100 on the factory list prices of all General Motors passenger cars, following several earlier price increases, tends to establish a new basis of calculation for the vast majority of people who feel that they can finance the cost and upkeep of a "low-priced" car but whose income does not justify the strain of going above the $1,000 mark in order to enjoy the convenience of "individual transportation."

Based on present wage scales, and considerable increases in operating costs, General Motors and other automobile manufacturers may be fully justified in raising prices, but it must be taken into account that millions of potential buyers of cars are not among those whose income has increased in proportion to advancing costs and that they are therefore barred from participation in conveniences which were being made a part of "the American way of life."

If, as might be assumed, the upward swing in automobile prices is merely a temporary measure, designed to restore a balance between supply and demand by weeding out applicants unable to meet the higher prices, its diplomacy may be questioned.

If, however, substantially higher prices are to be permanent—with many would-be purchasers thus barred from ownership—then some expansion of mass transportation will need be provided for the considerable number of people who cannot afford the expense of buying and maintaining a family car.

Elephants are now priced at $4,000 apiece—twice as much as before the war—but of course there are a lot of people who can get along without an elephant.

What goes up must come down, including prices.

ESCAPE FROM UTOPIA

GOP May Change Foreign Policy By Trimming Down Planned Loans

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — With Republican leaders gathering in the capital to begin organizing their own GOP-ruled congress for the first time in 16 years, here is a Merry-Go-Round view of what the country can expect during the next two years:

Foreign Policy—On the surface there will be no outward change. Later, however, important changes will become apparent. The British already are worried over our swing to the right.

Budget—The three largest expenditures of government are for army-navy, veterans and service on the national debt. These can't be pruned—unless the Republicans want to cut down the army and navy, which they are not likely to do. Easiest pruning job, therefore, is on foreign loans and relief. UNRRA will be the first to go. A $200,000,000 loan to Italy, planned by Truman, will be ditched next. Other loans to European and Latin American countries will be axed.

This is where one change in foreign policy comes in. The Italian loan was planned in order to help struggling Italian democracy and prevent Italy's swing to Russian Communism. Midwest Republicans, many of them still privately isolationist, will veto this.

However, the end of several wartime expenditures such as price subsidies and service separation payments should permit balancing the budget.

Taxes—Despite current talk of tax relief for small wage-earners, there will be only minor tax cuts. One of two things will happen. Either expenditures will be such as to forbid major tax reduction; or a cut will be made in the lower brackets, after which GOP congressmen, pressured by higher-bracket groups, won't be able to resist the temptation to get aboard the gravy train. If they add tax reduction for the higher brackets, it means that Truman will veto the bill.

Tariffs — Midwest Republicans would like to go back to the old Hoover high tariffs. Some of the eastern GOPers from manufacturing regions will go along with them. If they get going in earnest, however, there will be a stalemate. Truman will veto.

Labor—One Republican faction favors immediate and outright repeal of the entire Wagner Act. However, they know this would bring a veto and that the veto probably would be sustained. Another GOP group wants to avoid antagonizing labor. Certain AFL leaders, especially John L. Lewis and carpenters' boss Bill Hutchinson, helped them win the election, and they want to keep labor happy for 1948. Therefore, the following compromise is probable:

1. The Case bill will be passed once again, and this time will become law. Even if Truman vetoes, which is doubtful, Southern Democrats and the strong GOP majority will be able to over-ride the White House.

2. Senator Ball's bill, putting labor unions under the anti-trust laws, also will be adopted.

Immigration — Republicans are traditionally hostile to immigration and minority groups, and the house immigration committee now is inherited by Rep. Noah Mason of Illinois, well-known witch-hunter who takes his cues from the Chicago Tribune. Displaced persons in Europe will get little comfort from Mason. A revived and stronger "Dies committee" can be expected—probably in both houses of congress.

Economic Outlook—Prices generally will rise during the next six months, though not so rapidly, and with some commodities such as food and textiles dropping in the winter. Food prices should slump after the Argentine and Australian crops are harvested in February. Clothing and furniture prices should come down soon, certainly after Christmas. Autos will remain scarce for some time.

Rent control will be dumped within about six months, though the Republicans will be too smart to repeal it outright. They will pass the buck back to the individual states, which will mean the virtual end of rent controls, since state legislatures are notoriously susceptible to real-estate lobbies.

That, in brief, is the future GOP congressional picture.

The Next War.

It escaped general attention, but Senator Tydings of Maryland beat Foreign Minister Molotov to the punch by proposing general world-wide disarmament.

Those who noted Tydings' statement at first could hardly believe it. Tydings, with a good World War I record, always has been a big-navy member of the naval affairs committee, is generally considered a staunch armaments senator.

However, Tydings served on the senate's atomic energy committee, where he had a chance to study close-up the results of atomic warfare.

Perhaps as a result, the Maryland senator recently made a significant speech before a group of veterans in which he pointed out that in past wars the United States always had been the arsenal of democracy. We manufactured the weapons of war, but always had been able to fight far from our own shores.

"But in the next war," explained Tydings, "there won't be any non-combatants."

And he went on to point out that atomic bombs plus long-range air power would bring the next war to the front door of every American citizen. First objective of the enemy would be to knock out our industrial machine.

That, he said, was why it was so all-important to prevent war. Tydings made one of the most effective pleas against war so far heard from any U. S. senator.

Treatment of Toxic Goitre.

MOST people think of toxic goitre as a condition in which the thyroid gland overworks to produce far too much of its stimulating secretion.

That is untrue, but doctors today are coming to believe that the over-activity of the thyroid gland is only the most outstanding part of a much more widespread disturbance, in which many other parts of the body are involved.

Dr. James H. Means of Boston, for instance, believes that other glands of internal secretion—the body's chemical plants for making the powerful substances needed in the body's regulation—may also be affected.

Eyes Are Affected.

In some cases of toxic goitre, the symptoms affecting the eyes overshadow all others and are even more troublesome and more marked than are nervousness, fatigue, loss of weight, or rapid beating of the heart.

In such patients there may be bulging of the eyeballs, limitation of movement of the eyes, especially upward, double vision and retraction or drawing away of the lids from the eyeball. The eyelids may be swollen and the lining membrane over the eye reddened and inflamed.

The eye condition may be so severe that it results in inflammation of the cornea or front part of the eyeball, scarring of the eye, and inflammation of the entire eye. Dr. Means thinks that some trouble with the pituitary gland located at the base of the brain may be, in large measure, responsible for the bulging of the eyes.

He believes, also, that in those instances in which the eye symptoms are severe, removal of the thyroid gland is inadvisable. He suggests treatment with thyroid extract on the theory that this will suppress the excessive action of the thyroid gland. He has found that with this treatment improvement occurs, although it is brought about slowly.

Iodine Treatment.

In those cases in which the eye symptoms are severe and other symptoms such as nervousness are also present, treatment of the condition with X-ray may be advisable. Recently, these patients have been treated with what is known as radioactive iodine.

When proper treatment of the thyroid condition is carried out, slow improvement may be brought about or at least the disorder may be kept from progressing. However, the patient must be under constant care by the physician so that, if alarming symptoms develop, they may be promptly taken care of.

Assignment: America

—By KENNETH L. DIXON

Everybody "Surprised," Some "Astonished."

WASHINGTON — Although some received the news with consternation and others with frank delight, the president's sudden removal of building material price ceilings brought almost equal astonishment to both sides of the long-drawn National housing feud.

Neither side had anticipated any such drastic action.

To top officials of the housing administration, it brought ill-concealed fear that the entire veterans' home-building program might collapse, taking rent controls along with it.

Ironically, the president's regretful reasons for lifting the ceilings and Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt's recently-stated reasons for maintaining them were almost identical.

Said Mr. Truman: ". . . Price control on building materials alone, with no price control on products competing for the same raw materials, would drive these materials away from housing and defeat "the objectives of the entire program."

He added that talk of successfully eliminating only one part of the program was similar to "talking of taking one link out of a chain and still using the chain!"

The expediter expressed personal confidence that even a new congress would continue the major phases of the veterans' housing project.

He obviously had no fears of such a move on the part of the president.

Simultaneously, spokesmen for several real estate and financial groups fighting for elimination of the entire housing administration frankly admitted they had little hopes of success before next year, at the earliest.

"We may get a few of the controls relaxed and some of the building material ceilings raised a little," one of them said, "but the administration and congress are too much afraid of the veteran reaction to do anything drastic."

"For that matter," he added ruefully, "I'm not even sure we would want to be in the position of having forced immediate abandonment of the entire program."

Caught in between, and not quite sure which way to turn, various veterans' organizations expressed much the same sort of opinion. After a nationwide survey of housing conditions, members of the American Legion's special investigating committee were skeptical of the advisability of any sudden and drastic move.

One of them said privately that the committee probably would recommend revision of certain phases of the program and "perhaps gradual lifting of some controls."

However, he said he was sure there would be no immediate pressure to lift rent controls, and that building material price ceilings and eventual control of rents "are obviously pretty closely related."

A spokesman for the National Association of Home Builders agreed that the relationship between those two factors was close, but contended that lifting the building price ceilings would tend to improve the rent situation.

"Actually, it will mean more homes built at lower prices because of the competition," he argued, "and that inevitably will lead to lower rents."

Then he, too, voiced the general chorus.

"But I'm afraid there's not much chance of getting the ceilings lifted for a long time yet. Everybody's afraid of the veteran's reaction."

Propose Preferential Primary In South.

WASHINGTON—Election of a Republican congress officially opened the battle for the party's 1948 presidential nomination.

It has brought an interesting suggestion for reform in picking delegates from the South to the next national convention.

This suggestion comes from the South, and is aimed at stopping the notorious trafficking in delegates in some Southern states, which is an open scandal.

There is a lively over-the-counter trade in delegates among bosses who deal in hand-picked delegations known, colloquially, as "kept delegations."

Now comes Wilson Williams, Republican national committeeman from Georgia, to suggest that this sort of traffic be stopped by holding preferential presidential primaries in the South at which candidates for the nomination could enter themselves for a popular test by ballot in Southern states. This has been discussed privately in Republican circles.

Mr. Williams announced Georgia would hold a preferential primary in 1948.

The target of this campaign is Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, who has had control of a number of Southern state delegations through local bosses beginning with the 1940 convention when he was nosed out by Wendell L. Willkie.

There is no secret about the situation. Mr. Taft's chief operative in the Southern field, John Marshall, has been well known as such for a long time. It is his job to keep the Southern bosses on the string from year to year. The kingpin of the Southern bosses is R. B. Creager, national committeeman from Texas, who was the senator's floor manager at the 1940 convention.

Another Taft lieutenant in the South for many years was B. Carroll Reece of Tennessee, now chairman of the Republican national committee, which gives the Ohio senator another key place in the party machinery.

Wilson Williams from Georgia long has fought the Taft crowd on the national committee. He has tried to shake off the Taft hold in the South, but hitherto with no success. Only a few from the South, an isolated national committee member here and there, has joined him from time to time.

Mr. Williams was a Willkie champion. He has not indicated publicly his choice for 1948. It isn't Senator Taft.

It is known that the Harold Stassen people are interested in breaking the Taft influence with the Southern delegations, as undoubtedly are other candidates.

These delegates were a nucleus in the Taft bid for the nomination in 1940, and in that of John W. Bricker, fellow Ohioan, for whom Senator Taft stepped aside in 1944. Senator Taft is relying on the Southern delegations again for 1948. John Marshall is busy as usual at his job in the South.

Mr. Williams suggested his plan in a public statement on the Republican victory in which he emphasized that, because of the party's new responsibility, it must not dissipate its energies in "battles for control of the 1948 national convention by factions and ambitious individuals."

Marquis Childs

Opening Way for GOP "Positive Action."

WASHINGTON — This is the moment of pause for shifting the scenery. The moving van is chugging up Capitol Hill. The Democrats are starting back home.

The Truman administration waited far too long before cleaning out the surplus scenery of price control. Ever since midsummer, the price control system has been as dated and as useless as last year's Christmas tree.

Controls have been worthless since the president lost his fight with congress. Senator Robert A. Taft was the master strategist behind that Republican victory. The price control bill the president finally signed was nearly as much of a sham as the one he vetoed.

The mess over price control was, I believe, primarily responsible for the extent of the Republican sweep. The trend was already there. The confusion, plus spiralling prices, fed the resentment. The Republicans cleverly shouldered the blame onto the party in the White House. Taft can claim a great deal of credit for what has happened.

Since the defeat of last summer, the president and his chief assistants have been fussing over what to do about controls. Mr. Truman's stubborn attitude on meat in the middle of the campaign, and then his sudden about-face, certainly did not help Democratic chances.

At the same time that meat was de-controlled, all controls should have been ditched. That advice came from some quarters. The president, it was argued, should take a bold step, knocking out all controls and putting the blame squarely on the Republican opposition.

More timid counsel prevailed. The president was won over by those who said that the political consequences of new price rises immediately before the election would be disastrous. So once again it was a case of too little and too late.

The president could not have delayed much longer the step he took over the week-end. The CIO convenes in Atlantic City next week. If wage controls had still been in effect, with prices soaring, a blast would certainly have been forthcoming from the worried leaders of CIO.

In the debate that went on in the White House during the last few days, OPA Administrator Paul Porter took a new stand. He joined those who argued that nothing less than a clean sweep would be of any avail. In earlier arguments, before the election, he had been for keeping controls.

Porter, an able citizen beneath the genial surface he presents to the world, has taken a fearful beating in recent months. When the president appealed to his sense of loyalty, he left his position as chairman of the Federal Communications Commission to take the thankless job of OPA chief. Trying to keep some semblance of price control, Porter had been the target for brickbats from every side.

On Porter's fellow Kentuckian, Wilson W. Wyatt, falls the heaviest burden as a result of the president's action. Last-minute discussion centered on whether to try to keep ceilings on building materials. This was abandoned when Porter pointed out that it would be necessary to keep approximately 75 per cent of industry under controls.

Now Wyatt must try to hold a last-ditch line in order to get houses built for veterans. His job as housing expediter has been a tough one. But it will be even tougher from here on out.

The president is said to be preparing to wipe out the remnants of other wartime acts. He will deprive the Republicans of the pleasure of pushing down a structure already far gone in decay. And thereby he will clear the way for whatever positive action the GOP may have to put forward.

Farmer's Diary: "Wanted: Trail Blazers."

IT STRIKES me that the leading article in this month's Country Gentleman ought to be of interest to you all. It is "Wanted: A Program For Freedom" by Milton S. Eisenhower, president of Kansas state college.

"Farmers," says Pres. Eisenhower, "want precisely what everybody wants — an America producing abundantly, achieving rising standards of living and contributing to a firm, dependable peace . . . people are basically no more selfish than they were yesterday, and we did gloriously unselfish things from 1941 to 1945."

He thinks there are five causes of disagreement and confusion. 1—It is human to be slow in the head. Conditions change faster than we comprehend . . . the modern conservation farmer who sees his neighbor abusing the land, will readily understand.

After being a debtor nation for generations, we have been a creditor only thirty years. We stiffarm the fact that we hold the world's I O U's and try to run our business as has been usual, even though production of excess exports over imports is tantamount to giving part of our work and resources away, for the world has not the means of paying for it.

2—Every business is specialized Let the economic machine get out of order and millions may walk city streets, unemployed, while food rots on the ground. Such interdependence calls for broad understanding and tolerance . . . specialization makes for narrowness.

3—Almost any action for the national interest is likely to do temporary harm to some organized group.

4—We have escapists who believe we should turn to planning by experts, and private enterprises who call all public enterprise suspiciously akin to the devil and communism.

5—We need common ethical aspirations — a goal comparable to that of winning the war . . . something to get enthusiastic about . . . to work and to cheer for.

"Our forefathers' devotion to political democracy and human freedom came directly out of their Christian philosophy. Human dignity and the promotion of the common good were so important to them that they subordinated selfish interests to gain supreme values. Whenever America has done great things, she has put these goals uppermost."

President Eisenhower then suggests that about a dozen leaders of labor, industry, agriculture and government come together and draw up an internally consistent, over-all program for America. These men should be respected by the people for their breadth of view, and freedom from political bias. He names Eric Johnston and Paul Hoffman, (business) Clinton Golden and Frank Fenton, (labor) Lloyd Garrison both management and labor, Chester Davis and W. I. Myers, (agriculture), Clarence Dykstra and Frank Graham (education), as men of the type needed for such planning.

When a tentative plan is drafted, it should be given to groups of notably fair men in each state who will explain it to civic organizations, educational groups and forums of public discussion.

OFFICER CALLED IN LIQUOR CASE

Police Lt. Clare W. Kyler said today he had been ordered to testify at a State Liquor Control Board hearing of a case concerning the Big Three Beer Company, North Main street.

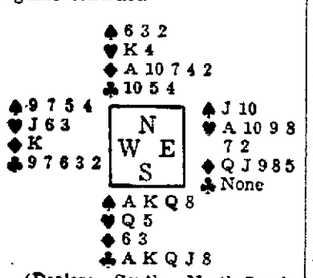
Kyler said that he was the arresting officer last August in a case involving an employe of the Big Three charged with selling intoxicating beverages to a minor.

A jury hearing the case against the employe, Helen Sawyer, 117½ North Main street, deadlocked 6 to 3 and was dismissed, Kyler said. She was accused of selling beer to a 17-year-old Perrysville, R. D. 2, boy who was put on a year's probation.

Kyler has been subpoenaed to appear Nov. 27 to testify "in the case of Harry R. Roth and Irvin H. Munster," owner and operator of the Big Three.

Barclay On Bridge

After it has been shown that your side possesses game strength —by an original suit bid of two, by a single jump bid at some stage, or by a cue-bid of an opponent's suit—your side should almost never settle for less than a game contract or a double that promises a satisfactory number of points. When such a game-guarantee situation applies to your side, a pass by either partner is a "forcing pass," obligating his mate to take action of some kind rather than let the bidding close with the opponents undoubled or his own side in less than a game contract.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♦	1 ♥
2 ♠	3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥
Pass	Pass	Pass

South's 2-Spades obviously told the world that, with North able to answer the opening bid at all, the side had enough strength to call for a game contract. North did exactly the right thing by passing 3-Hearts. It was a forcing pass, to give South a choice between doubling and bidding, which South was ready to do with a call of 4-Clubs, which North could have carried to 5-Clubs.

But, when East took away the necessity for South to decide by making his bid of 4-Hearts, South inserted a forcing pass, "passing the buck" back to North. That was an absolute force upon North to bid or double. With vulnerability as it was, his best call would have been 5-Clubs, which could have been made with the loss of one trick each in the red suits. If he felt that was precarious, he should have doubled the 4-Hearts rather than pass.

As it was, North and South got a dinky 100 points for setting East two tricks not doubled, with two in spades, one in hearts and two in diamonds, whereas the worst should have been with that contract doubled, producing 300. "Don't pass a forcing pass" would be a good way to codify procedure in such cases.

Three Schools 100 Per Cent In Red Cross

Four schools already have reported their Junior Red Cross enrollment for the current drive for membership, Mrs. Ephraim Brown, Richland county Junior Red Cross chairman, reported today.

Three of the schools reported 100 per cent memberships. At Senior high school, where Miss Grace Essex is teacher-sponsor, 80 per cent of the 1,257 students have joined the Junior service. Miss Essex reported that seven rooms attained perfect membership records.

Mrs. Helen Light, sponsor of the Maple school, announced that all 26 pupils of that school have been enrolled. Similarly, all 50 children in the Robbins kindergarten, taught by Mrs. Ruth Robbins, again signed for membership and Prospect school's 235 pupils enrolled 100 per cent. Miss Ruth Moffat is the Prospect sponsor.

"These reports indicate," Mrs. Brown said, "that our enrollment will be pretty close to the perfect mark. If other schools follow the lead of these 100 per cent three, the Junior Red Cross enrollment in Mansfield and Richland county this year should be one of the most successful we have ever had."

Working with Mrs. Brown in putting across this year's enrollment is Mrs. Milo W. Hieber, enrollment chairman.

The annual enrollment will continue until Nov. 15.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A Londoner, very correct and very superior, was being shown the sights of Ireland by a native courier. They included the Devil's Gorge, the Devil's Whirlpool, and the Devil's Bowl.

It led the Englishman to drawl, "Old Nick seems to be an extremely important personage in Ireland."

"Right you are," said the guide, "but like all the other landlords, he makes his home in England."

* * *

Morgull came mooching back from the race track with his coat collar turned up despite the 80 degree weather. "What happened to me shouldn't happen to a dog," he reported. "I get a sure thing in the seventh race—a real long shot—65 to 1. So I bet two thousand dollars on the nose. My nag is a mile ahead at the last turn—the money is already in the bank—when suddenly he stumbles over something and pulls up lame. Curtains!"

"If anything like that happened to me," a friend sympathized, "I think I'd cut my throat."

With a dramatic gesture, Morgull flung open his coat collar. "Look!" he commanded.

Mrs. Meese Gives Review For Dolly Madison Club

Forty members of the Dolly Madison club heard Mrs. Osborne Meese review the book, "The Age of Jackson" by Arthur Schlesinger, jr., at the home of Mrs. Joseph Woerth, Edgewood road, Tuesday night.

In this timely book, the author pointed out that "American democracy has come to accept the struggle among competing groups for the control of the state as a positive virtue, indeed as the only foundation for liberty." Mrs. Meese noted that traditions established by Jefferson and Jackson have been the basic meaning of American liberalism.

The speaker also read an editorial, "Challenge After Victory" which appeared in the New York Times.

Mrs. Boyd Weirman was in charge of the business meeting at which time it was voted to continue the custom of giving books to the Children's Home at Christmas with Mrs. Glenn Marriott and Mrs. Charles Chew in charge of the project. A donation was voted for the Volunteers of America.

CITY ASKED TO BACK NATIONAL GUARD PROJECT

37th Division Officer Tells Club Reorganization to Get Underway in State.

Mansfielders will soon be asked what part they are willing to play in reorganizing the Ohio National Guard, Gen. Leo Kreber, commanding general of the 37th division, told Rotary club members yesterday at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Speaking on "The Post-War National Guard Program," Gen. Kreber said federal approval of the reorganization of the Guard was received in Columbus yesterday.

The 37th division which saw service in the Pacific theatre, and was inactivated a year ago, now has two years in which to reorganize, Gen. Kreber said. "Mansfield is soon to be asked for an opinion as to the kind of Guard unit it would prefer and can support. It is going to be a job to reorganize," said Gen. Kreber, who has been with the 37th since 1922. We won't have any trouble getting officers. It is the enlisted men we will need help in getting.

"We don't want a large regular army, as this country is not militaristic," he pointed out, "but at a time when other nations are not demobilizing we must have a properly trained civilian component so that we can defend ourselves from aggression at any time."

"If we have trouble in reorganizing we may be forced to take other means," Gen. Kreber warned. He then spoke of the proposed universal military plan which is to be presented to the 80th congress.

Cites Alternatives.

The plan of UMT is to require each physically able youth to undergo a six-month training course after which he will be required to choose one of several alternatives: the regular army, National Guard, or Organized Reserves for one year or more, or, if the trainee has exhibited certain skills he may make one of several choices as to college, United States military academy or Annapolis Naval academy training.

Gen. Kreber pointed out that "the American Legion helped to frame this plan and it would seem to be the one that will cause the least loss of time and still adequately train the men."

Referring to objections raised to the UMT plan, particularly by educators and churches, when it was presented to the 79th congress, Gen. Kreber said: "I feel that those objections can be overcome, and that it is now the duty of those who objected to help us."

Summing up the need for the civilian component, Gen. Kreber said: "We have to give our statesmen the backing so that they will have the necessary punch in their dealing with other countries.

"We have to have a co-ordinated policy to show that we are all of one mind—for peace. If so, other nations will realize that we are ready to do anything necessary to maintain the peace, but that we can show the strength necessary, not to be aggressors, but to keep that peace now and for our children."

Thomas J. Hanley was program chairman of the meeting. Glenn L. Bierly introduced the speaker.

FHA RALLY SET FOR SATURDAY

A Future Homemakers of America rally at which the Shelby high school chapter will be host to other chapters in Richland county; will be held at the Shelby school Saturday with a pot-luck luncheon furnished by the local chapters, it was announced today by Miss Eileen Handley, home economics teacher at Shelby.

Schools in Richland county which don't have chapters have been invited to send representatives to the rally.

It is hoped that the rally will encourage the formation of other chapters in the county, Miss Handley said.

County rural schools now having chapters, in addition to Shelby, are Lucas, Ontario and Union.

Representatives of all chapters in the county will be chosen at the rally to attend a district meeting this winter and the state convention planned for next spring on the Ohio State University campus.

Each of the four FHA chapters in the county will furnish part of the entertainment at the rally, Miss Handley reported.

The rally at Shelby is one of a number of other county rallies being held by 280 FHA chapters in Ohio.

In Crawford county a rally will be held at Bucyrus Saturday.

FHA members are high school girls who are home economics students.

President and co-chairman of the reception committee of the Shelby chapter is Sue Dye.

CATCH TERRORIST

LONDON—(INS)—An unidentified Polish Jew, seized by British military intelligence agents as he tried to land at Liverpool, held the dubious distinction today of being the first alleged member of the Jewish resistance movement to be arrested on English soil.

Today's motorized rural free mail delivery in the United States serves 8,000,000 families.

BLAST KILLS 6 IN JERUSALEM

JERUSALEM—(AP)—Attackers described by police as Jewish extremists today ambushed a police dawn patrol, which daily combs railway lines for bombs, blasting its ramshackle hand-propelled trolley and killing all six officers aboard.

The "suicide patrol," instituted two weeks ago when Irgun Zvai Leumi said it was launching an anti-railway drive, was ambushed at Beit Safafa on the outskirts of Jerusalem. The patrol had been appearing daily at the same spot, a few minutes after starting its track inspection tour from Jerusalem yards.

Killed were two British constables, one Arab sergeant and three Arab police officers.

Another train attack near Jaffa left a fireman and an Arab police guard wounded and stranded the day's first passenger train. In both attacks police said explosives buried between crossties were electrically detonated.

Today's attacks raised to 14 the number of blasts at railways in the past month.
